SEVEN YOGA PRACTICES TO BOOST YOUR IMMUNITY DURING COVID-19 PANDEMIC

Yoga is an ancient physical, mental and spiritual practice that focuses on bringing harmony between the mind and the body. Originating some 5,000 years ago in the Indian subcontinent, this subtle science today is known for its tremendous cultural power that has maintained a deep impact on the world. The word ‘yoga’ comes from the Sanskrit term ‘yuj’ which means to unite. It is a combination of physical exercise, diet control, breathing techniques and concentration, which strengthens the body and relaxes the mind. This, in turn, improves immunity. And in a world reeling under the evolving form of the SARS CoV-2 virus, boosting one’s immunity is crucial along with taking precautions.

On the 7th International Day of Yoga, here are seven yoga practices that will help you boost your immunity, build up psycho-physiological health, emotional harmony, and manage daily stress and its consequences. It may also play significant role in the psycho-social care and rehabilitation of COVID-19 patients in quarantine and isolation.

1. Pranayama
   Nadisodhana or Anuloma Viloma (Alternate Nostril Breathing)
   Pranayama is composed of prana meaning ‘breath’ and ayama meaning ‘res厉nt or control’ together meaning ‘control of breath’. Pranayama is composed of three stages: puraka (inhilation), kumbhaka (holding the breath) and reekaka (expiration).
   - Sit in any comfortable posture. Keep the spine and head straight with eyes closed. Relax the body with few deep breaths.
   - Keep the left palm on the left knee in Jhan mudra and the right palm should be in Nasagra mudra.
   - Place the ring and small fingers on the left nostril and fold the middle and index finger. Place the right thumb on the right nostril.
   - Open the left nostril, breathe in from the left nostril.
   - Close the left nostril with the small and ring fingers and release the thumb.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN YOGA

Dr. R. Elangovan

Yoga is a sadhana through which one may achieve divine consciousness. It is useful in practice. Yoga is a way of life and a remedy for many ailments. Today, people across the world practice Yoga. At the same time, Yoga has come up as an attractive career option in recent years. At least 66 days of practice is required for anyone to become a yogic practitioner. Let’s first understand what any Yoga practitioner should have knowledge of.

- Prayer activates the vibrations in the brain particularly the hypothalamus, increasing the blood flow to the brain. It promotes Kriya yoga, Bhakti Yoga and Jhana Yoga.
- Kriyas perfect the autonomous nervous system. These balance the three doshas (vata- nervous system; pita - digestive system; kapha - respiratory system) and eliminate toxins.
- Pavamukthasana Series
  1) Increases synovial fluid;
  2) stretches ligaments and tendons;

   3) promotes immunity power and brain function;
   4) flushes out excess free radicals;
   5) flushes out excess calcium-oxalate solifliness

- Surya Namaskar and asanas balance the secretion of hormones. Twenty minutes of these practices are advisable everyday. Surya Namaskar strengthens the body, builds flexibility, improves endurance, and develops cardiovascular fitness. Balanced asanas provide balance to actively engage core muscles and to strengthen smaller muscles and joints of the feet. Asanas in static (minimum 10-30 seconds) enable contracted muscles to lengthen and to have good joint mobility through muscle flexibility.
- Mudras and yogic practices control the form and pressure of the cerebrospinal fluid (regulated in the brain as well as in the spinal cord) that allows the neurons to generate high electrical potentials. The cerebrospinal fluid prevents the mood elevating hormones from entering into the blood, that may have devastating effect on brain function.
- Pranayama maximizes endurance and removes toxins; cures all diseases, balances earth, water, fire and air elements, activates electrical activity; 15 minutes of pranayama practices are advisable everyday to get maximum medical benefits.
- Bandhas activate the central nervous system.
- Meditation purifies the mind by its electrical activity; activates space elements; leads to thoughtlessness stage; increases blood flow. It is advised to do meditation at least 20 minutes a day either in the morning or evening.
- Yoga promotes Immunoglobulin-A in saliva. It turns double the amount of fat in the morning. Yoga improves cardiovascular, strength and flexibility.
- Yogic practices enhance gray matter for cognition and white matter for communication. Yoga enhances white from the right nostril; exhale through the right nostril.
SEVEN YOGA PRACTICES TO BOOST YOUR IMMUNITY

- Next, inhale through the right nostril. At the end of inhalation, close the right nostril and exhale through the left nostril.
- This completes one round of the Nadisodhana or Ulna Umlom Pranayama. Repeat for another 4 rounds.

While practising pranayama, breath should be slow, steady and controlled. It should not be forced or restricted in any way. For beginners, the duration of inhalation and exhalation should be equal. Gradually make the ratio 1:2 (inhalation: exhalation), respectively. Initially start the practice with few repetitions and gradually increase the number of repetitions. Don’t practice retention or hold at initial stage. Nadisodhana pranayama reduces the sympathetic activity and stimulates vagal (parasympathetic activity) and decreases stress and anxiety.

Ujjayi involves sitting in any meditative pose, taking a long, deep breath slowly from both nostrils. By constricting the back of the throat similar to the construction made while blowing a whistle, the breath binds to the passage between the throat and heart and creates noise. At this stage, kumbhaka may be practiced. After this, close your right nostril and exhale from the left nostril. This pranayama increases the oxygen saturation in body.

Bhramari pranayama, similar to humming, may increase nasal nitric oxide (NO), which may improve blood flow to the ciliary epithelium and has anti-inflammatory action.

Kapalabhati

Kapalabhati involves performing raksha (exhalation) and puraka (inhalation) in rapid succession, like the bellows of a blacksmith.

- Sit in any comfortable posture. Close your eyes and relax the whole body.
- Inhale deeply through both nostrils, expand the chest.
- Expel the breath with forceful contractions of the pelvic and abdominal muscles and inhale quietly and relax completely.
- This is one round of kapalabhati. Each round shall be followed by being still for a while. Repeat 2 more rounds.

A useful preparatory practice for pranayama, kapalabhati improves pulmonary functioning and helps to overcome cough disorders. It also helps to cleanse frontal sinuses. Beginners can practice up to 3 rounds of 20 rapid breaths each. It is better to practice it early in the morning on an empty stomach.

Patients with hypertension, cardiac problems, respiratory distress, slipped discs, vertigo, migraine, hernia, and gastric ulcer must not do it. The practice must also be avoided during pregnancy and menstrual cycle.

3. Sasankasana

Sasanka means hare. The body in this pose resembles the hare, hence the name.

- Sit in Vajrasana (a sitting asana that requires one to sit with one’s legs folded beneath their buttocks perpendicular to their spine).
- Spread both the knees wide apart, keep the big toes touching.
- Inhale keep the palms between the knees.
- Exhale, band forward with arms outstretched and place the chin on the ground.
- Keep the arms parallel. Look in front and maintain the posture and come up.

Come back to Vajrasana. Come to Dandasana and rest in Vajrasana.

Sasankasana is the perfect yoga posture for reducing stress. It supplies blood to the crown of the head, which helps in relieving stress. It also strengthens the spine, stretches the back, and shoulders while stimulating the immune and endocrine systems. Avoid this posture in case of acute backache. Patients with osteoarthritis of the knees should avoid Vajrasana.

4. Bhujangasana

Bhujangasana means snake or cobra. In this asana, the body is raised like a cobra. The head is lifted up by the neck muscles. The chest and abdomen are lifted up, while the buttocks remain on the ground. The hands are placed on the floor behind the neck, fingers pointing forward. The head is turned to one side and the eyes are kept closed.

- Now come back and place your forehead on the ground. Keep your palms besides the chest and raise your elbows where they are.
- Inhale, slowly lift the head and chest up to navel region. Keep the elbows parallel and maintain the posture for 10-30 seconds with normal breathing.

This is Bhujangasana.

- Exhale, rest your forehead on the ground, come back to Makarasana and then come out of it.

This asana improves chest expansion and cardiovascular functions, and helps relieve bronchial problems. It also helps relieving stress.

5. Uttana Mandukasana

Uttana means upright and Manduka means frog. The final position of Uttana Mandukasana resembles an upright frog, hence the name.

- Sit in Vajrasana.
- Spread both the knees wide apart while big toes touching each other.
- Raise your right arm, fold it from elbow and take it backward above the left shoulder and place the palm on the left shoulder blade.

6. Savasana

This is a relaxation posture.

- Lie down on your back with arms and legs comfortably apart. Palms facing upward, eyes closed.
- Relax the whole body consciously.
- Become aware of natural breath and allow it to become slow and shallow.

- Remain in the position till you feel refreshed and relaxed.

This asana helps to relieve tension and helps the body and mind to relax and unwind. It relaxes the whole psychological system. The accompanying psychogenic distress in COVID-19 patients are often ignored. COVID-19 patients are liable to fall prey to anxiety and acute depression during home isolation quarantine.

7. Dhyana

Dhyana or meditation is an act of continuous contemplation.

- Sit in any comfortable posture. Keep your spine comfortably straight.
- Adopt Jana mudra Dhyana mudra.
- Touch the tip of the thumb to the tip of the index finger, forming a circle. The other three fingers are straight and relaxed. These fingers are side-by-side and touching.
- Keep your palms facing upwards on the thighs. Arms and shoulders should be loose and relaxed. Close your eyes and sit with a slightly upturned face.
- You need not concentrate. Just maintain a mild focus between the eyebrows and be conscious of your breath.
- Decide the techniques and try to attain single and pure thought.
- Meditate.

Meditation is the most important component of Yoga practice. It helps reduce anxiety and stress by reducing the cortisol level and enhancing the alpha brain wave. It also balances the functions of neuroendocrine system thereby enhance the immune system. The asana rejuvenates the whole body and mind giving them proper rest. Meditation leads to self-realisation.

These techniques have shown to reduce severity of the symptoms in COVID-19 patients, with mild to moderate infection. The World Health Organization mentions Yoga as a means to improve health in its ‘Global action plan on physical activity 2016-2030: more active people for a healthier world. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, during his address to UN General Assembly on September 27, 2014, had stated, “Yoga is an invaluable gift of India’s ancient tradition. It embodies unity of mind and body, thought and action; restraint and fulfillment; harmony between man and nature; a holistic approach to health and well-being. It is not about exercise but to discover the sense of oneness with yourself, the world and the nature.” And with this spirit, International Day of Yoga is celebrated every year on June 21 across the globe.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN YOGA

Yogic practices promote the process of detoxification (the process of purifying tissues). Heavy alcohol consumption can damage your nervous system.

Yoga activates neurotransmitters that help cells produce energy and boost immunity, and prevent disease from getting in. Yoga helps you attain the qualities of total well-being.

Yoga and light stretching can improve mood and melt tension before bedtime.

Yoga promotes a balanced hormonal state which aids in producing healthy red blood cells.

Yoga practices purify the cardiovascular and amygadal, parts of the brain which are meant for stabilising emotional behaviour. Yoga also improves long-term memory.

Yogic practices balance the secretion of oxytocin and its inter-connectivity with other mood-sustaining hormones, such as dopamine and serotonin.

Yoga acts as the natural process of optogenetics.

Yogic practices help prevent DNA damage.

Yogic practices transform energy through the pathway of the brain and all parts of the body to combat depression. This process is known as bioenergetics.

Sattvic diet

Sattvic diet promotes life, virtue, strength, health, performance, happiness. A diet of inner being and satisfaction. Each bowl of beans provides nutrition, 100% of your body’s needs and more. Nuts (mainly almonds and walnuts), seeds (pumpkin seeds) and avocados contain omega-3 fatty acids (good for heart health and memory).

These provide nutrients as fish and meat, but it’s curd and dal provide as much protein as chicken. Soybeans provide as much protein as beef. Fat, gluten and MSG (monosodium glutamate) are a good alternative to pork and meat. Groundnuts have over two times more nuts contained in them, which is mainly gained from meat fats, can also be gained from curd, buttermilk, cereals and other dairy products to make red blood cells.

Yogic practices and sattvic diet activate the process of thermogenesis (metabolism). Healthy diet produces more elevating hormones. A healthy diet requires limiting sugar (below 125 g/day); limiting salt (below 5 g/day); limiting fat (below 25% of total); 5 - 6% Women - 13 10% (Max.); Men 10 to 25% (Women); 20 to 35% (Mating); nuts and seeds (50 g/day). This helps in maintaining healthy body weight (BMI 18.5 - 24 kg/m2). Yogic practices and sattvic diet promote immunity and health in general among people to overcome the stress of COVID-19 pandemic.

Career avenues

Ever since the United Nations recognized the importance of Yoga by declaring June 21 as the International Day of Yoga, several institutions have joined the spirit to promote Yoga Education and Yogic Health. We are now in a world where spaces are fast opening up for unexplored business career and job opportunities. Filled with the promise of goodness, Yoga as a career option is dynamic, new, thrilling and enthralling.

The Government of India established the Ministry of AYUSH (Ayurveda, Yoga and Naturopathy, Unani, Siddha and Homeopathy) in 2014 to develop the integrative health system and body has been entrusted with development, education and research in the field of alternative medicine. With the Government now promoting Yoga as a way of life, several opportunities have emerged in the field. Teacher training courses offer professional training courses to students on how to deliver the service of Yoga to others. Organizations such as Indian Yoga Association, Yoga Alliance and World Yoga Organization register Yoga schools, institutions and teachers to create a global directory, readily available at one’s fingertips. This becomes useful when one is looking for a teacher, or if a yoga instructor is seeking teaching and coaching opportunities at specific locations. This community enables exchange of information, keeps itself updated with the latest from the world of Yoga and provides support for everyone.

Health and wellness as an industry is proving to be one of the major contributors in boosting the economy. Yoga accessories now have a separate market for dedicated customers. Additionally, the sadhaka diet industry has undergone a major shift towards organic food such as pure cow ghee products, dry fruits, herbal drinks, millet-based items, etc.

Furthermore, Yoga tourism has also taken off as a new travel trend. To avoid breaking down under the crisis of corporate stress, people opt for Yoga retreats which offer solace from the stress of the today’s lifestyle. Set in scenic locations, retreats with yogic practices and meditation sessions every day, yogic food and mantra chanting, these special workshops are yet another avenue for business in this industry. Other job opportunities and avenues include:

Corporate Yoga trainers
Fitness trainers
Wellness trainers
Yoga coaches
Personal trainers
Special educators
Yoga event management
Corporate therapists
Yoga special trainers
Holistic lifestyle coaches
Rejuvenation therapy and alternative medicine treatment
Manufacturing healing textiles
Ayurvedic/Eco-friendly clothing industry
Manufacturing smart yoga mats
Fitness and health video industry

Yoga is an art of successful and peaceful living. It is a way of healthy living at all levels. It is a tool for change.

Yoga is the science of creativity and personality development. It is a voyage of discovering truth or knowing the reality.

Yoga is a total experience of human life. It is a living tradition and a proven system of realizing divinity.

This field offers good potential for careers in various capacities.
