National Sports Day is celebrated on August 29 every year to commemorate the birth anniversary of hockey legend Dhyan Chand Singh. The day was included in the list of celebratory days in India for the first time in 2012. A legend of Indian hockey, Dhyan Chand is considered to be one of the best players to have ever played the sport. His career spanned from 1926 to 1946 and ended as one of the greatest hockey players of all time after having represented India in 185 matches and scored over 400 goals during this period. Such was Dhyan Chand’s mastery of the game and so dazzling was his ball control that he earned the epithets ‘Hockey Wizard’ and ‘The Magician’.

Dhyan Chand started playing hockey seriously during his stint with the British Indian Army and between 1922 and 1926, he competed in numerous Army hockey tournaments and regimental games. While he retired as a Major in the Punjab Regiment of the Indian Army in 1956, the Indian Government went on to confer the Padma Bhushan, third-highest civilian award, the same year. Indigenous to the Indian Army and the Indian hockey team, Dhyan Chand was the first to be awarded the Khel Ratna Award after Major Dhyan Chand. In the subsequent 1936 Olympic Games, Dhyan Chand headed to Berlin as captain of the Indian hockey team. He ended the Berlin Games with a total of 11 goals in five matches. In all, he scored 37 goals in 12 matches at the Games across three editions and three Olympic gold medals.

Dhyan Chand passed away on December 3, 1979. He will always be remembered as one of the greatest hockey players. In his honour, the National Stadium in New Delhi was renamed as the Dhyan Chand National Stadium in 2002.

On August 6, 2021, Prime Minister Narendra Modi tweeted that he has been getting many requests from citizens across India to name the Khel Ratna Award after Major Dhyan Chand.

CAREERS IN ANIMATION INDUSTRY

Mandar Dattatraya Digrajkar

Have you ever experienced the thrill of watching your name on the big screen of a blockbuster film? Not yet?

Come… build your career in the most exciting and creative profession of animation and visual effects.

Storytelling, through various animation forms has always been a tradition in India. Precursors to animation forms has always been a tradition in India. Precursors to modern animation such as shadow puppets, slide shows entertained audiences before the advent of the cinema. However, post-independence, in the '50s, the Indian animation industry took its baby steps into the field by creating educational, public awareness short films. Animation enthusiasts in small groups evolved into studios and since then, in last 70 years, India has come a long way to become one of the best animation creator at global level.

The biggest advantage of Indian animation are its creative strength and cost-effectiveness. That is why global industry leaders outsource their creative work straight away to Indian production houses which are young, well-prepared, and have an international focus to explore the field with passion, with strong grip and understanding of the evolving and changing business.

The Indian animation industry grew to establish more than 300 studios in last two decades. This tremendous growth is not in just numbers, but India’s animation arena has established itself as a hub for global content production. Many animation (Intellectual Property) IPs and movies have a considerable amount of visual effects produced in India for the global production houses, as the Indian animation industry gained recognition and respect worldwide on quality, technology and creativity.

The beauty of this profession is that everyday is a challenge, as one has to deal with varied tasks everyday. Artists have to concentrate on their core talents, be flexible to take over tasks of various complexities and styles, and always have an open eye to see the developments around them and update themselves.

Today, animation and visual effects is one of the most popular

Rangoji Bapu, who belongs to a historical town Satara in Maharashtra, has become synonymous with the revolt of 1857 and they are complementary to each other. There was a golden era of history hidden beneath the ruins of Satara. Lord Dalhousie had come to India in the year 1848, whom the English historians had honoured with the title of ‘Empire Builder’. He had imperialism in his blood and unsentimental faith in colonialism. As soon as he landed on the shores of India, he had declared, “I will strengthen the land of India.” He had come to India to strengthen the land and to strengthen the throne of the British Empire. He was not satisfied by merely lying up Punjab and Burma in chains of British slavery, as yet the ruins of ancient kingdoms remained. He had the apprehension that in future any person could rise from these ruins, tombs may stand up to take revenge against the injustices of the British. Satara’s ruins were one of them.

The former ruler of Satara, Appa Saheb had adopted Chhatrapati Pratap Singh to be his heir but the British did not agree to it claiming that he was, after all, Appa Saheb’s brother and not his son. Thus, they acquired Satara on the plea that it had no legal heir. The person who was most disheartened by this act was Rangoji Bapu, who was most disheartened. He started from Bombay on December 26, 1847 to apprise them about the pathetic state of Satara, Ajimullah Khan was here to destroy the ghost of the throne of the Peshwa. They were here also to gather more information about the Britishers who had brought about the complete ruin of their country.

The ember of revenge for injustice which lit in their hearts before they reached London grew further with the disappointment they faced there each day. It may not be there in the pages of history about what vows they had taken there to bring down the British Empire or what plan they had come up with when they came back to their land but it is a fact and indivisible part of history that the war of Independence occurred in 1857. In the same way, it is an irrefutable fact that the plan for revolutionary sacrificial blaze was made by Rangoji Bapu Gupte and Ajimullah Khan in London.

While in London, Rangoji Bapu rummaged through the Leeds Hall Street. He was even forced to spend his last penny as the fee of the British Barristers. He went from pillar to post but the point blank reply he got from the officers was, “Go away, we will not give Satara back.”

While in London, Rangoji got the opportunity to meet Ajimullah Khan, a man of extraordinary talent, who was in London to help Nana Dhudhu Pashwa claim his pension. Both faced rejection. Their religions were different, their castes were different but their aims were the same. Offended by the injustice of the British, they both discussed and pledged to retaliate.

“India’s Mutiny of 1857”, the writer of this prolific manuscript, Veer Vinayak Damodar Savarkar writes, “If Rangoji Bapu had come here to revive the ghost of the throne of Satara, Ajimullah Khan was here to destroy the ghost of the throne of the Peshwa. They were here also to gather more information about the Britishers who had brought about the complete ruin of their country.”

The information available about him says that Rangoji Bapu was fair and a brilliant man. His efforts for freedom made him achieve a far greater stature which has made his name immortal.

(Excerpt from Forgotten Martyrs of Eighteen Fifty Seven (Part-III) by Banarsi Singh)
The five global with countries offering tax post-production. In addition, reduces the time and cost of effective and efficient as it technology of cloud computing is community. At advanced level, tools were expensive and skill customers, are spending more time on streaming digital content. Viewers are so much engaged with high-quality productions with stunning visual effects and realistic animation that filmmakers are including more animation and visual effects shots into films and hence the demand for animation has expanded many folds. In addition, the demand for animation content to power immersive experiences such as Augmented Reality (AR) and Virtual Reality (VR) is growing exponentially. What has changed since the beginning of digital era in India? Earlier the tools were expensive and skill set was limited. Today, tools have become more accessible and even free for student community. At advanced level, technology of cloud computing is playing a key role in animation and visual effects which is more effective and efficient as it reduces cost and time of post-production. In addition, production work has become global with countries offering tax incentives, subsidies, financial support, skilled workforce etc.

Data shows that more and more international studios like MPC, the Mill, Mikros, DNEG, Mr. X, Digital Domain, Framestore, etc., are all setting up in India. These studios are always in search of the best talent to match the demand of work.

On the other hand, there are other aspects of this profession, like working as independent animation filmmaker or visual effect artist. Leaving aside the dedicated high-end and expensive softwares, there are also small-scale yet effective apps available and these are becoming first choice for many freelancers and small-scale studios.

As an enthusiast, one must take this profession seriously and most importantly keep oneself well prepared for all kind of creative challenges, as opportunities are plenty for the right candidate. A candidate must see this profession as a long-term career and not as a shortcut to fame. The five important 'C's... Critical thinking, Communication, Creativity, Command over the tools and Commitment are the key to success.

Required educational and professional qualifications.

There are different types of career opportunities for aspiring candidates, and if one has skills like drawing, focus, creativity, and communication, then they can flourish in the world of animation and visual effects filmmaking.

Most of the animation colleges have certain eligibility criteria, for UG and PG courses, which the candidate has to qualify.

For under graduate courses like Animation (Bachelor of Design), Diploma or B.Sc. in Animation, the candidate must pass 10+2 in any stream with 45% from a recognized board.

For Post graduate courses like M.Des. (Master of Design), the candidate must have a degree with the specialization they wish to pursue.

Institutions offering course in this field

In India, there are various Government and private institutes which offer courses in animation and related topics. However, some prominent animation career in this field can under go several of the programs provided by these government and private institutes:

- National School of Design (NID), Ahmedabad.
- Industrial Design Centre (IDC), IIT, Mumbai.
- Satyajit Ray Film and Television Institute, (SRFTI), Kolkata.

These (and other) national level institutes have their own entrance examinations for selection. e.g. DAT (Design Admission Test) of NID, CETE (Common Entrance Test) for IIT’s JET (Joint Entrance Examination) for SRFTI. These tests are specifically developed to understand candidates’ creative thinking.

Other than these national level institutes, many state level institutes also provide similar programs in animation and visual effects including Gujarat University, Ahmedabad. MGR Government Film and Television Training Institute, (Chennai), Trak Maharashtra VidyaPeeth (Pune) etc.

To cater to the huge demand of animation and visual effects industry, many private film schools like Toonz Academy, Whrlling Woods and unique institutes like Shri Sri University, Kurukshetra University, Lovely Professional University also provide UG and/or PG courses, though, private ones may have higher fee structure compared to government run institutes. More information about all the institutes are available on various social media platforms.

Present and future career prospects in the field

All roads lead to India when it comes to this profession. India is always at the forefront of creative developments, from the beginning of digital revolution to mixed reality of AR & VR.

Current state of this industry In India is very robust as movies or any video content are filled with significant visual effects. Apart from media & entertainment, education and visual effects have become an essential part of gaming, web series, documentaries, architecture & construction, education, healthcare & life science, manufacturing, government & defense, AR & VR and more.

Even in this difficult time of COVID-19, the animation industry stood up to the situation and fought with the challenges to come up with strong solution of remote/work from home jobs. Many studios quickly set up the required infrastructure to ease such remote work. Now the scenario is, many leading animation companies are in favor of work from home culture, even after the lockdown ends.

The upcoming technology of ‘Unreal 5 engine’ is set to allow real time interaction with high-resolution visuals than ever before. Visual effects studios are exploring ways to use AI (Artificial Intelligence) technology, innovative new production techniques, such as shooting live action against LED screens projecting CG backdrops rather than using chroma, to put visual effects upfront in the production pipeline.

Some of the latest trends, technologies and workflows:

- a. Cloud based post production pipeline
- b. Advanced photogrammetry in which, software are replacing tedious manual work of modeling, texturing, UV mapping
- c. Virtual production
- d. Process of creating and manipulating Digital creatures
- e. LED walls and projection of real images to replace chroma shooting, which is a must in VFX shooting.

Designing animation and VFX is an exciting teamwork. Even for creating a simple animation film one needs a team of skilled professionals and hence a fresher, it is important to understand the entire workflow from pre-production to post-production. As per interest and skills, one can begin one’s career at various levels like storyboard and concept artist, animation and VFX artist, effects generator, lighting and compositing artist, camera match-move artist, simulation artist etc.

Opportunities for Growth

In today’s world, 3D animation is no longer restricted to films or TV series. It has spread its wings in the fields of education, medicine, architecture, games, AR & VR, etc. The dynamism of emerging 3D software is highly competitive to suit the various needs of the world.

According to the recent reports, the global VFX market accounted for USD 11.33 million in 2018 and is expected to reach USD 23.85 million by 2025, at a Compound Annual Growth Rate of around 11.4% between 2019 and 2025.

Similarly, the Indian market is also exciting and has considerable opportunity in itself. A rise in traditional TV viewership and a significant rise in digital users over the decades, has paved the way for more Indian users to access and enjoy content more easily.

This will further create an increase in the demand for digital entertainment. It is estimated that there will be around 300 million new users in India by 2025. India’s animation and VFX industry was valued at around 50 billion Indian rupees in 2020, with estimates of growth up to 125 billion rupees by 2023. This is a compounded annual growth rate of around 35 percent for the industry. Employment for special effects artists and animators is projected to grow by 4 percent from 2019 to 2029, about as fast as the average for all occupations. This projected growth will be due to increased demand for animation and visual effects in video games, movies, and television.

One indication of this is, animation, VFX have become part of the syllabus in visual art studies, enabling artists and creative talents to be better prepared than ever to help take the Indian animation industry to new heights.

Today, opportunities are more for generalists, who have more than one skillset in the VFX pipeline. VFX studios are not only recruiting young fresher artists for a specific department, but also those who have adequate knowledge of other departments in the pipeline. It is win-win situation for both, for the employer and the employee for betterment of the production and quality.

It is most important for any candidate to get hands-on experience on the live projects and understand the teamwork, quality of work, pressure of delivering task in time for taking one career to new heights as team leader—VFX supervisor-project leader - film director and so on.

If one follows the five ‘C’s, sky is the limit to achieve anything in this creative profession, and YES! You can manifest your virtual dreams into reality!

PM Shri Narendra Modi’s address to the Nation on 75th Independence Day

• Today, on the pious festival of the Amrit Mahotsav of freedom, the country is bowing to all its freedom fighters and brave heroes who continue to sacrifice themselves day and night in the defense of the nation. The country is remembering every personality, including the revered Bapu, who made a mass movement, Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose, who sacrificed everything for the freedom, or great revolutionaries like Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar, Shyama Prasad Mukherjee, Shankar Dayal Sharma, Atal Bihari Azad, Bimal Sinha and Ashok Khanna; Rani of Jhansi Lakshmi Bai, Queen Chennamma of Kuttur or Rani Gaidinliu or the valour of Matangini Hazra, the country’s first Prime Minister Pandit Nehru ji, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, who integrated the country into a united nation, and Babu Sahu, a scholar and freedom fighter, who paved the way for the future direction of India. The country is indebted to all these great personages.

• While we celebrate our freedom today, we cannot forget the pain of partition that still pierces through the heart of all Indians. This has been one of the biggest tragedies of the last century. After attaining freedom, these people were forgotten too soon. Just yesterday India has taken an emotional decision, we will henceforth commemorate August 14 as “Partition Horrors Remembrance Day” in the memory of the victims of partition. Those who were subjected to inhuman circumstances, suffered tortured treatment, they could not even receive a dignified cremation. They must all remain alive and never get erased from our memories. The decision of celebrating “Partition Horrors Remembrance Day” on the 75th Independence Day is a befitting tribute from every Indian to them.

• Along with modern infrastructure, there is a great need for adopting a holistic and integrated approach in infrastructure construction. In the near future, we are going to launch the National Master Plan of Prime Minister ‘Gati Shakti’ which will be a huge scheme and fulfil the dreams of crores of countrymen. This scheme and paved the way for the future direction of India. We should not limit the occasion of 75th Independence Day to the celebration of the #AmritKaal. Indian Independence, marks the Amrit period of creation of a new India. The fulfillment of our resolutions in this Amrit period will take us to the hundredth anniversary of Indian independence with pride.

• Starting from here, the entire journey of the next 25 years, when we celebrate the centenary of Indian independence, marks the Amrit period of creation of a new India. The goal of ‘Amrit Kaal’ is to ascend to new heights of prosperity for India and the citizens of India. The goal of ‘Amrit Kaal’ is to create an India where the level of facilities is not dividing the village and the city. The goal of ‘Amrit Kaal’ is to build an India where there is world’s every modern infrastructure.

• We have to focus on helping our small farmers with Kisan Rail. Many of these districts are in tribal aspirational districts of the country. There is a huge potential in the fields of tourism, adventure sports, organic farming, herbal medicine, and oil pump in the North East. We have to fully harness this potential and make it a part of the development journey of the country.

• We have to complete this work within a few decades of the Amrit Kaal. Giving a fair opportunity to the capabilities of all is the true spirit of democracy. Be it Jammu or Kashmir, the balance of development is now visible on the ground.

• We will continue this journey of helping all our soldiers. We will continue the journey of helping our soldiers in the border and the coastal belt region, as well as the interior areas. We are ensuring that every village will have road connectivity, as well as healthcare facilities. We are ensuring that every village will have road connectivity, as well as healthcare facilities.

The government is now focusing on welfare of small farmers. More than 25 lakh farmer families have directly received over Rs. 1.5 lakh crore in their bank accounts.
SVAMITVA Yojana is transforming the lives of people in rural India. Drone is helping our rural citizens to map their land and apply for various schemes/loans online.
Co-operatives are not just a system with a network of rules and laws, but a co-operative is a spirit, culture, and the strength that runs the face of collective growth. We have taken steps to empower them by forming a separate ministry. We have taken this step to empower the cooperative sector in the states.
In the coming years, we will have to increase the collaboration of farmers with other farmers of the country. They have to be given new facilities. We are trying to empower these farmers through SVAMITVA Yojana.
We have decided to celebrate this Amrit Mahotsav of Independence for 75 years and it started on 12th March and will continue till 15th August, 2023. We will move forward with new enthusiasm and, therefore, the country has made a very important decision.
During these 75 weeks of the Amrit Mahotsav of Independence, 75 Vande Bharat trains will connect every corner of the country. The trains which are new airports are being built in the country and the UDAN scheme connecting remote areas is unprecedented.
We will have to work together for making our country a world-class producer, using cutting-edge innovation and new age technology.
Under the Jan Aushadhi Yojana, the products and services are now getting affordable medicines. Over 75,000 Health & Wellness Centres have been built and we are working on a network of hospitals at the block level.
To further increase our developmental progress, we have to focus on our manufacturing and export.
The country has also announced Production Linked Incentive to consolidate our Make in India campaign in the wake of the new economic conditions that have emerged due to COVID. A new manufacturing sector stands as an example of the change that is enforced through this scheme. Seven years ago, we used to import mobile phones worth about eight billion dollars. However, now the trend has reversed considerably and today we are also exporting mobile phones worth three billion dollars.
Trengthening ahead on the path of development, India will have to augment both its manufacturing and exports. You have witnessed, just a few days ago, and today, our first Indigenous Aircraft Carrier INS Vikrant for trial in the sea. Today, India is making its own fighter aircraft, its own submarine, Gaganyaan is also slated to host India’s flag in space. This itself is evidence of our capabilities in indigenous manufacturing.
I want to tell the manufacturers that every product you make is a brand ambassador for India. As long as that product is in use, the buyer will say - yes this is Made in India.
We will have to stop the over involvement of government in the form of complex policies. Today, we have abolished over 15,000 unnecessary compliances. We have introduced tax reforms that will give impetus to Ease of Living and Ease of Doing Business. Good and smart governance is required to implement the reforms. Today, the world is also witnessing how India is writing a new chapter of governance.
To introduce people centric approach in Bureaucracy, we have started Mission Karmayogi and Capacity Building programme.
Today the country also has a new National Education Policy. It is also going to be a great tool to fight against poverty in a big way. The basic reasoning of this is against poverty is also the education, prestige and importance of the vernacular language.
In a move towards strengthening Bel Bachao Bel Padao initiative, our daughters will now become able to step in the shoes of men. Today, be it education or Olympics our daughters are performing tremendously. We have to make equal opportunities and they feel safe and respected.
More than eight crore sisters in the villages are associated with Self Help Groups or Indian Tribal Women’s National Organisation. These are opening up today for our empowerment.
We have introduced tax incentives under the Jan Aushadhi Scheme. 75 Vande Bharat trains will connect every corner of the country and the UDAN scheme connecting remote areas is unprecedented.
In this decade of the 21st century, India will further accelerate its efforts towards the Blue Economy. The Ocean Mission is the result of our ambition to explore the unlimited possibilities of the ocean. The mineral wealth which is hidden in the sea, the thermal energy which is in the sea, can give new heights to the development of the country.
Green Hydrogen is the future of the world. Today, I announce the setting up of the National Hydrogen Mission.
We will have to make a Global Hub for Green Hydrogen Production and Export in the ‘Amrit Kaal’. This will not only help us to make a new progress in the field of energy self-reliance but will also become a new inspiration for Clean Energy Transition of the world.
New opportunities from Green Growth to Green Jobs are opening up today for our startups & youth.
India has also made a move towards Electric Mobility and the world on 100% electrification of Railways is also progressing at a fast pace. Indian Railways has set a target of becoming Net Zero Carbon Emitter by 2030.
The country is also emphasizing on Mission Circular Economy. Our Vehicle Scrap Policy is a great example of the same. Today, India is the only country in the group of G-20 countries, which is moving fast towards achieving its green goals.
India has set a target of 450 GW of renewable energy by the end of this decade - 450 GW by 2030. Of this, the target of 180 GW has been achieved by India ahead of schedule.
Today India is also solving those subject areas, which were hanging fire for decades and centuries. Be it a historic decision to abrogate Article 370, introduction of GST, a system that frees the country from the chains of Article 370, a system that frees the country from our obligations and our ambitions to explore the Blue Economy. The Deep Ocean Mission is the result of our resolve to fulfill its obligations to the world.
I am not a fortune teller, I believe in the fruits of action. I have faith in the youth of my country. I think every region of the country, the daughters of the country, the farmers of the country, the professional of the country. This ‘CAN Do’ generation can achieve every unimaginable goal.
In the 21st century, no obstacle can stop us from fulfilling our aspirations of India. Our strength is our vitality, our strength is our solidarity, our vitality is the spirit of nation, our solidarity is the time for shared dreams, this is the time for shared resolve, this is the time for shared efforts... and this is the time to move towards victory.
Today also is the birth anniversary of the great thinker of India Shri Aurobindo. His 150th birth anniversary will be celebrated in 2022. Sri Aurobindo was a visionary of India's bright future. He believed that we have to be as strong as we were never before. We have to change our habits. We have to re-organise the system.
When Swami Vivekananda used to talk about the future of India, when he used to see the magnificence of Mother Bharat, he would say, he used to say - Try to look into the past as far as possible. Drink the water of the ever-ever-spring flowing back and forth, and after that, look ahead. Go ahead and make India brighter, greater & better than ever. In this 75th year of the Republic of India, it is our duty to move forward believing in the immense potential of the country. We have to work together for new India. We have to work together for new India's development infrastructure; we have to work together for world class manufacturing; we have to work together for cutting edge innovations; we have to work together for new age technology.

He said, American troops cannot and should not be fighting in a war and dying in a war that Afghan forces are not willing to fight for themselves. Germany stopped development aid for Afghanistan after the Taliban swept back into power. French President Emmanuel Macron has said that Afghanistan must not become a safe haven for terrorists again. British Prime Minister Boris Johnson called the situation extremely difficult and said it is very important the West collectively should work together as no one wants Afghanistan to become a breeding ground for terror. Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau called the situation extremely fluid and exceedingly dangerous. Prime Minister of Italy Mario Draghi vowed all Afghan citizens who assisted Italy's mission in the country would be protected. On the other hand, Russia has decided to keep its embassy in Kabul open.
